第三部分 阅读理解 (共 15 小题; 每小题 2 分, 满分 30 分)

A

My father was, I am sure, intended by nature to be a cheerful, kindly man. Until he was thirty-four years old he worked as a farm-hand for a man named Thomas Butterworth whose place lay near the town of Biddable, Ohio. He had then a horse of his own and on Saturday evenings drove into town to spend a few hours in social intercourse with other farm-hands. In town he drank several glasses of beer and stood about in Ben Head's saloon--crowded on Saturday evenings with visiting farm-hands. Songs were sung and glasses thumped on the bar. At ten o'clock my father drove home along a lonely country road, made his horse comfortable for the night and himself went to bed, quite happy in his position in life. He had at that time no notion of trying to rise in the world. It was in the spring of his thirty-fifth year that father married my mother, then a country schoolteacher, and in the following spring I came wriggling and crying into the world. Something happened to the two people. They became ambitious(野心勃勃的). The American passion for getting up in the world took charge of them.

It may have been that mother was responsible. Being a schoolteacher of course she read books and magazines. She had, I suppose, read of how Garfield, Lincoln, and other Americans rose from poverty to fame and greatness and as I lay beside her--in the days of her lying-in--she may have dreamed that I would some day rule men and cities. At any rate she advised father to give up his place as a farm-hand, sell his horse and start an independent enterprise(企业) of his own. She was a tall silent woman with a long nose and troubled grey eyes. For herself she wanted nothing. For father and myself she was incurably ambitious. And she was right.

56. Which of the following is NOT true according to story?

- A. The writer's father had been more cheerful before he got married.
- B. The writer's father rode his horse to town and had some fun at weekends
- C. The writer's mother was quiet but took great responsibilities for the family
- D. The writer's mother urged his father to turn some other occupation rather than farmer

57. The underlined people in the last paragraph most probably represented _____.

- A. successful people
- B. cartoon characters
- C. movie stars
- D. rich people

58. We may know that the writer's mother _____.

- A. had a pretty face and was a bit lazy
- B. couldn't stand poverty and dreamed about seeking after a great fortune
- C. had mercy on her husband and worked very hard
- D. had a dream that her husband and her son would be something

59. What is the most suitable title for this story?

- A. The Romance of My Parents
- B. Turning-point of Our Life
- C. My Mother Made My Father a Man
- D. Ambitious American Parents

B

One morning, Ann's neighbor Tracy found a lost dog wandering around the local elementary school. She asked Ann if she could keep an eye on the dog. Ann said that she could watch it only for the day.

Tracy took photos of the dog and printed off 400 FOUND fliers(传单), and put them in mailboxes. Meanwhile, Ann went to the dollar store and bought some pet supplies, warning her two sons not to fall in love with the dog. At the time, Ann's son Thomas was 10years old, and Jack, who was recovering from a heart operation, was 21years old.

Four days later Ann was still looking after the dog, whom they had started to call Riley. When she arrived home from work, the dog threw itself against the screen door and barked madly at her. As soon as she opened the door, Riley dashed into the boys' room where Ann found Jack suffering from a heart attack. Riley ran over to Jack, but as soon as Ann bent over to help him the dog went silent.

"If it hadn't come to get me, the doctor said Jack would have died," Ann reported to a local newspaper. At this point, no one had called to claim the dog, so Ann decided to keep it.

The next morning Tracy got a call. A man named Peter recognized his lost dog and called the number on the flier. Tracy started crying, and told him, "That dog saved my friend's son."

Peter drove to Ann's house to pick up his dog, and saw Thomas and Jack crying in the window. After a few moments Peter said, "Maybe Odie was supposed to find you, maybe you should keep it."

60. What did Tracy do after finding the dog?

- A. She looked for its owner
- B. She gave it to Ann as a gift.
- C. She sold it to the dollar store.
- D. She bought some food for it.

61. How did the dog help save Jack?

- A. By breaking the door for Ann.
- B. By leading Ann to Jack's room.
- C. By dragging Jack out of the room.
- D. By attending Jack when Ann was out.

62. What was Ann's attitude to the dog according to Paragraph 4?

- A. Pitiful
- B. Doubtful
- C. Tolerant
- D. Grateful

63. For what purpose did Peter call Tracy?

- A. To help her friend's son.
- B. To interview Tracy
- C. To take back his dog.
- D. To return the flier to her.

64. What can we infer about the dog from the last paragraph?

- A. It would be given to Odie.
- B. It would be kept by Ann's family.
- C. It would be returned to Peter.
- D. It would be taken away by Tracy.

C

How fit are your teeth? Are you lazy about brushing them? Never fear: An inventor is on the case. An electric toothbrush senses how long and how well you brush, and it lets you track your performance on your phone.

The Kolibree toothbrush was exhibited at the International Consumer Electronics Show in Las Vegas this week. It senses how it is moved and can send the information to an Android phone or iPhone via a Bluetooth wireless connection.

The toothbrush will be able to teach you to brush right (don't forget the insides of the teeth!) and make sure you're brushing long enough. "It's kind of like having a dentist actually watch your brushing on a day-to-day basis," says Thomas Serval, the French inventor.

The toothbrush will also be able to talk to other applications on your phone, so developers could, for instance, create a game controlled by your toothbrush. You could score points for beating monsters among your teeth. "We try to make it smart but also fun." Serval says.

Serval says he was inspired by his experience as a father. He would come home from work and ask his kids if they had brushed their teeth. They said “yes,” but Serval would find their toothbrush heads dry. He decided he needed a brush that really told him how well his children brushed.

The company says the Kolibree will go on sale this summer, from 99 to 199, developing on features. The US is the first target market.

Serval says that one day, it'll be possible to replace the brush on the handle with a brushing unit that also has a camera. The camera can even examine holes in your teeth while you brush.

65. Which is one of the feature of the Kolibree toothbrush?

- A. It can sense how users brush their teeth.
- B. It can track users' school performance.
- C. It can detect users' fear of seeing a dentist.
- D. It can help users find their phones.

66. What can we learn from Serval's words in Paragraph 3?

- A. You will find it enjoyable to see a dentist.
- B. You should see your dentist on a day-to-day basis.
- C. You can brush with the Kolibree as if guided by a dentist.
- D. You'd like a dentist to watch you brush your teeth every day.

67. Which of the following might make the Kolibree toothbrush fun?

- A. It can be used to update mobile phones.
- B. It can be used to play mobile phone games
- C. It can send messages to other users
- D. It can talk to its developers.

68. What is Paragraph 5 mainly about?

A. How Serval found out his kids lied to him. B. Why Serval thought brushing teeth was necessary.

C. How Serval taught his kids to brush their teeth. D. What inspired Serval to invent the toothbrush

69. What can we infer about Serval's children?

- A. They were unwilling to brush their teeth
- B. They often failed to clean their toothbrushes.
- C. They preferred to use a toothbrush with a dry head.
- D. They liked brushing their teeth after Serval came home.

70. What can we learn about the future development of the Kolibree?

- A. The brush handle will be removed.
- B. A mobile phone will be built into it.
- C. It will be used to fill holes in teeth
- D. It will be able to check users' teeth.

第 II 卷 (选择题 共 55 分)

第一部分 任务型阅读(共 10 小题; 每小题 1 分, 满分 10 分)

请认真阅读下列短文, 并根据所读内容在文章后表格中的空格里填入最恰当的单词。注意: 每个空格只填 1 个单词。

Things adults should learn from kids

Children can teach adults a lot. In other words, there are many things adults can learn from children. For example, kids tend to show love. Every action they do for parents, friends, pets, and people they like, is filled with love. They don't think twice before loving, and they just love. So adults can learn this: the best way to receive love is to first give it. Unfortunately, most of us have developed the habit of questioning everything. We often try too hard with love, and associate it with weakness. Actually, the only way to experience love is to have minimal expectations, and love your dear ones unconditionally.

Kids never hide emotions. They cry when they hurt themselves, and express displeasure when things don't go their way. On the contrary, we adults always try to hide our feelings, and never express ourselves sincerely. We often feel happy for others with negative thoughts in our hearts. Crying or expressing oneself is what normal people do. Never hold back tears or happiness. If you want to cry, cry your eyes out, and if you are happy or pleased about something, don't be afraid to show or share it.

Kids are curious little beings, who always try to understand their surroundings by completely involving themselves in every task they undertake. They have a huge appetite for knowledge, and ask lots of questions every day. This curious nature guides their life, and often leads them to simple yet brilliant discoveries. Are adults as curious as kids? Well, most of us aren't. Also, they no longer have the thirst for knowledge, and don't even ask questions if they don't understand something. Adults often forget that it isn't talent or skill but our curiosity and a huge appetite for knowledge that makes us worthy.

Kids live in the present, and give 100% to any task they are doing. They never worry about the future, and since they are so busy enjoying their present, life is great today. However, with a job, money, and relationships, it does get hard for an adult to enjoy life. The best thing to do here is to change oneself, and if that isn't possible, we can live like a child. Just don't bother about the future, because it isn't in your control. The only thing you can control is your present, so work hard toward it.

As kids treat everyone equally, they make friends soon and also play a lot with them. Through playing, they make a lot of astonishing discoveries about their friends and surroundings. They also learn a lot about life, because they are out in the open and are playing with all their hearts. So how long has it been since you played outdoors for fun as an adult? Not some serious sporting event or activity, just kicking a ball, running in the park, or any other silly game! Playing doesn't mean that you have to achieve a purpose. Sometimes, it is healthy to just have some fun.

阅读下面材料，在空白处填入适当的内容（1 个单词）或括号内单词的正确形式。

We think that life in Chinese high school is an adventure in which we have to survive mountains of homework and exams. Yet would it be 91 (surprise) if I tell you that high school life in the US is almost as stressful and demanding as it is in China?

In US high school, everything 92 (record) and graded, including your grades on quizzes, tests and final examinations. Failing 93 (turn) in your homework on time will directly affect your grade for a certain course. Perhaps contrary to 94 we used to think of the US high school students, they pay great attention to their 95 (academy) performance to try to get into a key university. 96, they'll be disappointed after graduation from high school.

Like university students, US high school students have the 97 (free) to choose the courses that most interest 98 (they). Even a ninth-grader can sit 99 the same classroom as 12th-graders. But this also means he or she has to work very hard, because the teacher will not treat him or her differently just because he or she is a few years 100 (young).

书面表达

Every year after the college entrance exam, the top-rated exam takers will attract wide attention from all over the country. They accept various interviews, take part in different social activities and receive quite a lot of prize money as well.

Some people say "yes" to this phenomenon. They think, for one thing, it can make more people care about education; for another, those top students can and do set good examples to the rest of the students.

However, others hold opposite opinions about this. They believe that giving too much attention to those top winners can do more harm than good to them. Meanwhile, high marks don't necessarily mean strong ability.

In my opinion, it's all right to give proper attention to those top winners. But we shouldn't pay too much attention to them. After all, exams and marks aren't everything.
