Since May 12, a computer virus named WannaCry has infected (感染) more than 300,000 computers in over 150 countries, according to Reuters .

WannaCry is spread by using a weakness in Microsoft's Windows operating system . Once the virus gets into the computer, it locks all the papers and asks the user for money to unlock them . At first, it asks for $300, but if the user doesn't send the money in 72 hours, the price doubled, Papers are locked forever if the user doesn't pay in seven days .

The virus has brought bad results . For example, in the UK, the virus left the country's National Health Service in a mess . Some hospitals had to cancel patient appointments (预约) , reported The Telegraph . In China, the virus has hit thousands of computers, according to Qihoo 360 . One of the most hard-hit groups in Qiu were university users . Many students' graduation papers were locked . They felt nervous and frightened . Also many gas stations were seriously hit, and the payment system didn't work .

WanaCry is the latest example of the cyber security (网络安全) problem . Matthew Hickey(who set up the security company Hacker House) said, "The attack is not surprising . It shows that many organizations do not use updates (更新) fast enough . " According to a survey, nearly half of the people said, " We are not satisfied with the way software updates work . "

As China Daily wrote, "We can't completely protect our computers against these kinds of viruses, as this cat and mouse game will continue forever . The best choice for most users is to take care online and always install (安装) software updates . "

- ()54. If your papers are locked by WannaCry, how much do you need to pay to unlock them at first?
 A. $ 150. B. $ 300. C. $ 450. D. $ 600.

A. Matthew Hickey thinks the attack on computers is very surprising
B. all the people are pleased with the way software update work
C. the computers can be completely protected against these viruses
D. we should take care online and update software fast enough

"Oh boys, boys, don't throw stones at that poor bird," said an old gray-headed man.

“Why, sir,” said a little boy, “she makes such a scream, that we can’t bear her.” “Yes, but she uses the voice which God gave her. And it is probably as pleasant to her friends as yours is to those who love you. Besides, I am afraid the stone will rebound (弹回), and hurt you as long as you live!”

"Rebound! We don't understand you, sir!" "Well, come and I will tell you a story." "Is it a true story?" "Yes. Every word is true."

"Fifty years ago, I was a boy like you. I used to throw stones, and as I had no other boy very near me to play with, I threw them till I became very accurate (精确的) in my aim.

“One day I went to work for an aged couple named Hamilton. They were very kind to everybody and everything. Few people had so many swallows (燕子) making their nests (鸟巢) under houses. Few had so many pets that seemed to love the couple.

“For seven years a bird had come. After the long winter, the bird built her nest in the same place and raised her young ones there. She had just returned on the day that I went there to work.

“During the day, I thought I would try my skill upon her. She sat upon a stick near her nest, and looked at me trustfully. I found a nice stone and threw it with my best skill.

"It shot (击中) the bird on the head, and she dropped dead!"

“I was sorry as soon as I saw her fall. But the deed was done. All day long her mate flew about, and was so sad that he made my heart ache. Why had I taken a life so innocent (无辜的), and hurt the poor mate so deeply?”

“I said nothing to the old couple about it. But, through a grandchild, they found it out. Though they never said a word to me on the matter, they mourned the bird and buried (埋葬) it. I could never look them in the face afterwards. Oh, I had told them how sorry I was!

“They have been dead many, many years. But don’t you see how that stone rebounded and hit me? How deep it made upon my memory! How deep upon my conscience (良知)! Why, my dear boys, how I want to give a great deal today if I could do something for that deed!

"For fifty years I have carried it in my memory. I have never spoken of it before. Yet if what I have now said shall prevent you from throwing a stone that may rebound and deeply hurt your conscience. I shall be very cheerful."

The boys at once dropped the stones they had in their hands.

- ()57. The underlined word "mourned the bird" in Paragraph 10 mean "_____".
- A. were not willing to throw the bird away B. showed sadness for the loss of the bird
- C. punished me for the death of the bird D. took care of the bird's family members

- A. he had to work for the aged couple B. he shot the bird to death by her nest
- C. he carried the story in his memory D. he didn't tell the deed to the couple
- ()59. We can infer (推断) from the last sentence that _____.
- A. the boys ran away and would not come back
- B. the boys couldn't get nice stones from then on
- C. the bird now had no more trouble from the boys
- D. the bird now would stay in her nest for the rest life
- ()60. Which can be the best title for the passage?
- A. The Stone That Rebounded B. The Dead Bird
- C. The Couple Who Complained D. The Hurt Boy

听第一篇短文，回答 13-15 题

Emily is my friend from America. She is 14 years old now. She is interested in science and good at it. Every year she goes travelling with her parents. She believes that travelling is important in her life. Of all the places she has visited, she likes New York best because it is both modern and beautiful. She has learnt that China is a large country with many places of interest. This October, her family will fly to Beijing. They will stay here for 5 days. I will show them around the city. I'm sure they will have a nice time in China.

听第二篇短文，回答第 16~20 小题。

At May Middle School in London, the students must stay at school from Monday to Friday. They can go into the town in the evening, but must return to the school before eight o'clock.

A student called Bob walked to the town and went to the cinema. When he arrived at school, it was half past eight. He was a little worried. He ran quickly to the gate. It was closed too. Then he saw an open window on the first floor. It was the headmaster's office. Bob looked into the room. No one was there. He quickly climbed up and jumped into the room, just then he heard someone was talking outside the door. He looked around and hid himself under the sofa. One minute later, the headmaster came in. He turned on the light and sat on the sofa. Then he began to read.

Bob lay under the sofa and looked at the headmaster's feet for an hour. He was too afraid to move. Finally the headmaster stood up and walked towards the door. 'Thank Goodness, he did not find me under the sofa,' thought Bob. Then the headmaster stopped. He turned his head and spoke to the sofa, 'Could you turn off the light before you leave?' and then left the office.

九、书面表达

China, also called the People's Republic of China, is an Asian country with a long history. It has/covers an area of 9,600,000 square kilometers. It is made up of 56 nationalities. It's the third largest country in the world. Beijing, the capital city, is big and modern. It's the cultural centre of China.

There are lots of places of interest to visit in China. Among them is the Palace Museum in Beijing. Kings and queens used to live there./It used to be the home of kings and queens. In Beijing you can also climb the famous Great Wall and taste the delicious food---Beijing duck. If you like shopping, you can go to Wangfujing Street. Moreover, if you like places of natural beauty, you can go to Guilin. There you can enjoy the natural sights/ the beauty of nature and take a boat trip around the Li River. You can also visit Suzhou if you like Chinese gardens. In the gardens, you can take a lot of photos.

You can visit China in any season/all year round. But I think the best time to visit it is in spring or autumn because it's neither too hot nor too cold at that time of year. The pleasant weather makes you feel comfortable and happy during your stay here. What's more, people here use RMB instead of dollars or pounds.

I hope you will have a fantastic time here.
